About TRUE GRIT HOME INSPECTION

True Grit Home Inspection was founded on the basis of doing what is good and honest at all costs. Homes can be such finicky things, as they are designed to a standard that is always changing and never fit the needs of the end user to the fullest capacity.

Brandon Courmier the Founder and Lead Inspector at TGH has a heart for education and understanding. With multiple degrees in engineering fields of design and science, Brandon has an understanding of systems and how best to communicate their functions and downfalls. As a Professional Home Inspector, Brandon has extensive knowledge and connections in the industry that can ensure only top tier service.

Holding a clearance with the Department of Homeland Security, Brandon is also a trusted FEMA Housing Inspector when communities are in need of his service.

Commercial inspections may be required for evaluation of a rental or purchase property. Commercial inspections follow the guidelines set forth by ASTM International in article E2018-15, for Property Condition Assessment (PCA) and the Property Condition Report (PCR).

These guidelines set an outline for the property inspection, but the inspectors at True Grit Home Inspection work with the client to determine their exact needs and will hire the required licensed trades if necessary to provide a comprehensive PCR.

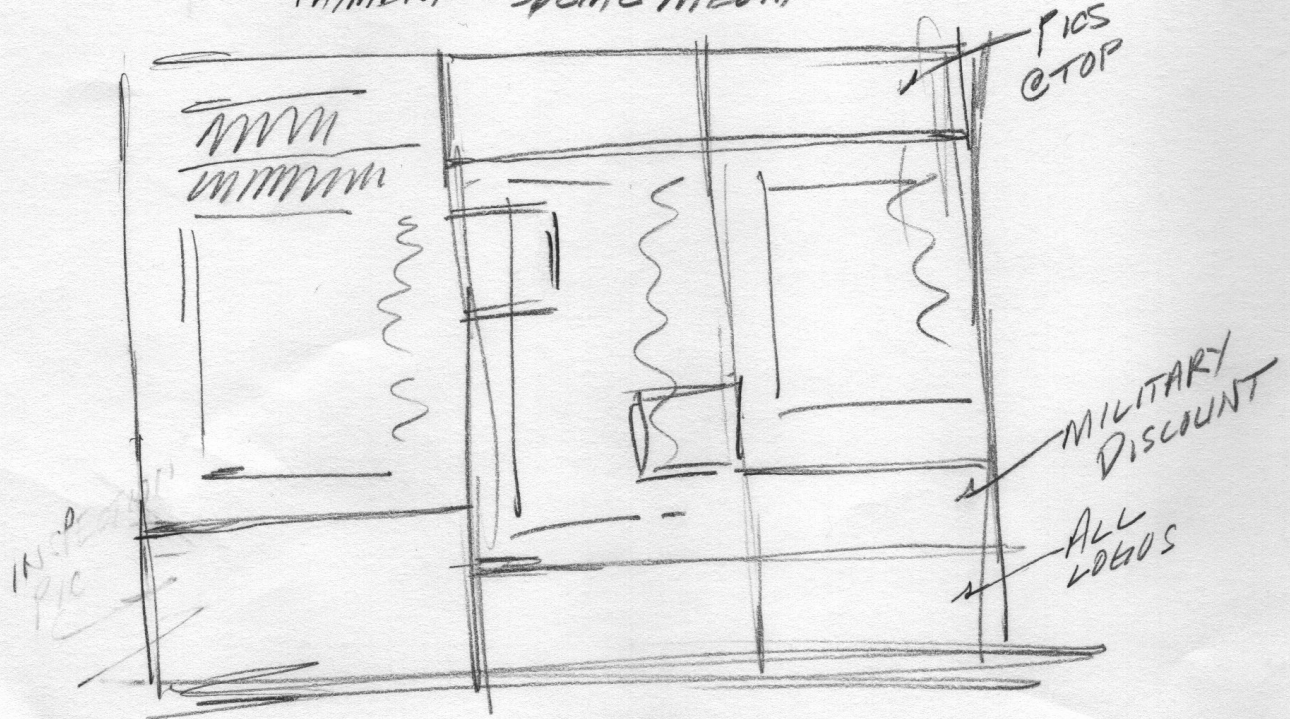

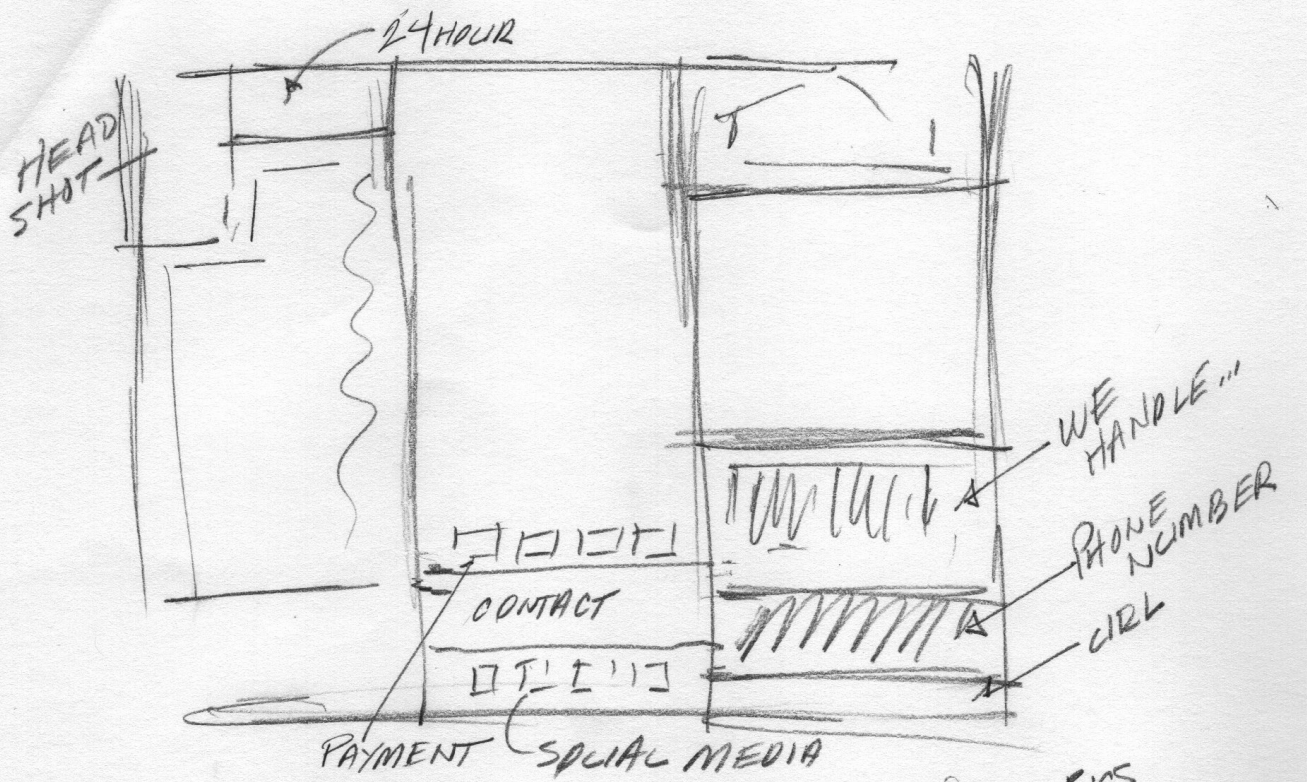

Long travel and fast turn around is not an issue with performing commercial inspections.
